What's New In?

PhishBlock is an intuitive software solution aimed at protecting you and your personal information from cyber attacks, by preventing access to websites with a known reputation for infecting computers. Approachable and accessible UI The program is quite simple to handle, its usage requiring little to no prior experience with such tools, particularly since all you need to do is run it and allow it to do its job. The main window of PhishBlock will display a history of blocked websites, while also enabling you to manually add URLs, Name Hosts or IP Addresses to the default database. Effortlessly block access to dangerous websites

The web is a notoriously unsafe place, as it can infect your computer with all sorts of malware, some of which not even your antivirus will be able to see, until it is too late and your personal information is in the hands of ill-intended individuals. PhishBlock aims to prevent that from happening altogether, by detecting and disallowing access to webpages, IP addresses or DNS hostnames that are signaled as infected. It does this by means of a network filter driver, in order to stop the problem before it even becomes one for you. As such, every time you unknowingly try to browse a perilous web page, the application automatically closes it and informs you that it has been blocked. This way, PhishBlock reduces the likelihood that your data may be stolen and used for illicit purposes. Moreover, you can add yourself websites to the database, that you know are infected, this information being shared with other users of the utility. However, it also draws its data from online sources. A handy means of preventing malware from affecting you To conclude, PhishBlock is a practical and user-friendly tool that can help you further protect your system from intrusions, enabling you to keep your data safe by preventing your PC from getting infected, rather than deal with the consequences later. PhishBlock Review Is the program safe? Yes, the product comes with a 30-days trial, so you have time to test it out for yourself, to make sure that you do not run into any conflicts with your antivirus. Once you've decided that it will work for you, you can buy the software for $39.95, which represents a pretty fair price for the product and the quality that it provides. Besides, the easy-to-use interface and functionality of the software are more than enough to make it a worthy
